THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 10th, 1887.

Ashland is soon to have a stove foundry.

Another Western Express train was robbed last week.

The Treasury department reports $898,600,002 cash in the Treasury.

Jenny Lind, the great Swedish singer, died last week, at the age of sixty-six years.

DeLesseps expects to have ships floating through his Panama canal in about two years.

Gen. F. C. Latrobe was inaugurated as Mayor of Baltimore for the fifth time yesterday.

There is but one known survivor of the Vernon, which was lost in Lake Michigan last week.

A subscription fund is being raised in Louisville for the erection of a tabernacle in which the Rev. D. L. Moody will soon hold a series of meetings.

The citizens of New York have called a meeting for Thursday next to take steps looking to a centennial celebration in 1889 of the inauguration of George Washington as first President of the United States.

J. R. Agee was hanged at Lexington last Friday for the murder of his brother-in-law, James Faulkner, in September, 1885. All efforts for new trials and Executive clemency failed.

E. L. Harper, of Fidelity Bank notoriety, has been removed from the jail at Dayton to the Cincinnati jail. The trial has been set for Nov. 29th. His bail is fixed at $200,000.

At the special election held in Bath county last Saturday the proposition to subscribe $150,000 to the capital stock of the Paris, Georgetown and Frankfort railroad was successful by a majority of nearly 800 votes.

It is not probable that Gov. Oglesby, of Illinois, will in any way interfere with the cases of the Anarchists, though petitions for clemency are being poured in upon him. The Socialist element is a dangerous one and should by all means be suppressed by giving its criminal leaders the extent of the law.

Gov. Buckner has issued his proclamation recommending that the people of Kentucky observe Thursday, November 24, the day set apart by the President, "in the manner in which each individual may deem most fitting, to acknowledge the bounties which have been extended by the beneficence of the Supreme Being."

Mrs. Lucy Parsons, wife of the Anarchist, created a sensation in Chicago one day last week by selling pamphlets entitled, "Was it a Fair Trial?" She drew such a crowd around her that the street was completely blocked, and the police compelled her to move on. She sold in a few hours 5,000 copies at 5 cents each.

A compliment has been paid Mr. Carlisle by the great men of Georgia. They held a meeting at Atlanta Saturday and unanimously extended an invitation to him to visit Georgia and deliver an address on tariff reform. A committee on invitation consisting of fifteen gentlemen, with Gov. Gordon as Chairman, was appointed to convey to Mr. Carlisle the action of the meeting.

The seven condemned Anarchists were refused the request for a writ of error by the United States Supreme Court, and they will be hanged to-morrow, provided a commutation of sentence is not granted by the Governor. Spies, Fielden and Schwab have signed petitions humbly begging for a commutation, but the other four have written letters to the Governor stating that they would not accept an exchange of sentence. Fifty-four policemen, armed with Winchester rifles, are quartered in the jail.

At Ravenna, O., last week "Blunk" Morgan, on trial for the murder of Detective Hurligan, bet a cigar with his attorney that the verdict of the jury would be "guilty of murder in the first degree," and Morgan won, smiling grimly at his luck. Morgan was one of the Cleveland "fur thieves," and committed the murder while attempting to rescue some of his partners from the officers of the law.

Charles Brownfield, of Louisville, a young man of good character, cut the throats of his sleeping wife, child and brother-in-law last Thursday night, after which he hanged himself. He left a note, written after the murder, in which he stated that he killed his wife and baby because he was tired of life and did not want them left in the world penniless, with no one to care for them. He said that he killed his brother-in-law because he did not think he was fit to live.

The national congress of farmers, comprising delegates appointed by the Governors of the several States, will assemble in Chicago, November 10, and continue in session during three days. The mission of this congress is to prepare for concerted action in securing legislation favorable to agriculture in such matters as can be controlled or influenced by general legislation. The various combinations, syndicates and trusts have been formed, and are in process of formation, all looking forward to the laying of increased burdens upon the weaker and unprotected classes, and for concerted action on all hands. Particularly is this true as regards the farming industries of the country.

A suspicious looking small box was received through the mail by Chief Justice Waite soon after the decision in the Anarchist cases was rendered.

It contained powder and a jet of black fluid, so arranged that the raising of the lid would have exploded it. The box was made of pasteboard, however, and a post-office employee stamped it on one side with such force as to disconnect some of the machinery, and thus an explosion was prevented.

LATER.—It has lately been discovered that the alleged effort referred to above was only an attempt on the part of a young fellow to secure money under false pretenses from several newspaper men. The prepared box was found to be perfectly harmless—except to those who prepared it.

The Eastern Kentucky Land company of Mt. Sterling has purchased Cumberland Gap and all the land in the immediate vicinity surrounding it. As the Gap in the Cumberland range is the objective point of a number of proposed railroads, the investment is likely to prove a good one.—Courier-Journal.

It is reported from Washington that Mr. W. C. P. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, will be Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means in the event of Mr. Carlisle's re-election to the Speakership. As Mr. Thorpe's contest is not based upon any practical proof, Mr. Carlisle's retention of the Speakership gavel will be set down as a certainty. Breckinridge is a devoted follower of Carlisle's, and can be expected to reflect his views as Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.—Louisville Commercial.

The Frankfort Capital thus speaks of Mr. K. F. Pritchard: "Col. Keene F. Pritchard, of Catlettsburg, one of Kentucky's most eminent lawyers, died at his home on Saturday last of paralysis of the brain. He was fifty-five years old, an ex-member of the Senate, and popular with everybody. He was an earnest and eloquent speaker and a knightly gentleman, who will be missed from among us. He leaves a wife, three children and a host of friends to mourn his death. Peace to his ashes."

Kentucky's Development.

Already the development has begun. To-day there are more miles of railroad under contract and in course of construction in Kentucky than in any other State in the Union. Soon every nook and corner of our territory will be penetrated by this iron advance agent of progress, and then—then Kentucky will take the rank in the column of States which she is naturally entitled to. Young man, and old man too, for Kentucky's era of prosperity will come in your day, stick to Kentucky. She has been a little slow about it, but she will make ample amends to all who will stand by her.—Shelby Sentinel.

The E. K. Railway.

The Eastern Kentucky Railway is a short road extending from Riverton, on the Ohio river, through Greenup county and a part of Carter to the Eastern Kentucky Junction, where it crosses the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. The present Southern terminus of the E. K. Railway is at Willard, Carter county, which is about two miles from the Junction. The statement is made that the road is to be extended to Bristol, Tenn. A company has for some time been engaged in building a road, known as the Imboden road, from Bristol, through Virginia to Big Stone Gap on the Kentucky line. The Eastern Kentucky company has bought the forty miles of new road, with all the lands, ores, minerals and other property belonging to the Imboden road. The two companies have been consolidated, and Vice President, Bates, of the Eastern Kentucky, has been made President of the new Company. He has gone to Bristol to push the work there. Operations will commence in Kentucky in the spring. The extension through Kentucky, from Willard, will probably be up the Big Sandy valley, though it may be made up the Upper Licking valley.—Courier-Journal.

Mr. J. H. Mareum has been mentioned as the next Democratic candidate for State Treasurer. Mr. Mareum made many friends, among members of both the principal political parties, while serving as Sergeant-at-Arms of the Senate last winter, and as he is very popular wherever known would make a strong candidate. We hope he will receive the nomination.—Ceredo (W. Va.) Advance.

High License.

[Owensboro Messenger.] High license in Minnesota is rendering the same service to the cause of order and sobriety that it has done in other places where it has been fairly tried. There has been a falling off of about a third in the number of saloons in the cities where it has gone into operation, most of those which have closed were of the class which was responsible for a large share of crime which whiskey drinking has caused in the communities in which they are situated. High license is the true solution of the liquor trouble. The prohibition fanatics and a number of short-sighted Louisville liquor men joined hands in the last Kentucky Legislature and defeated a high license bill, which, after the revenue bill, was the best measure proposed during the whole session. But a high license bill will inevitably be passed during the session of the coming winter.

The following account of an old mule belonging to Mrs. Nancy Honaker, of Floyd county, is taken from a correspondence to the Standard Journal:

"The old mule has quite an extensive history before and since the late war, but his war record is said to be especially interesting. Mrs. Honaker gives her age at seventy-three years, and the mule, she says—and so do other old inhabitants here—is very well known to have been a resident of this State a little over sixty years, and how long he resided in Old Virginia before he moved here no one knows. I have often since I have been at this place met Aunt Nancy riding out on the mule. Once she went to where her son-in-law, Mr. Loar, was getting out timber, eighteen miles away, over these rough mountain regions. The old animal also does good service as a buggy mule, and I believe from the get-up-and-go-along there is in him that he will be a useful mule at the close of Cleveland's second term as President of the United States."

In Brief, and to the Point.

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Diarrhoeal liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature. The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order. Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics. But Green's August Flower has done a wonderful work in restoring this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy. Remember—No happiness without health. Dr. Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

THEIR BUSINESS BOOMING. Probably no one thing has caused such a general revival of trade at K. F. Vinson's Drug Store as their giving away to their customers of so many free trial bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Their trade is simply enormous in this valuable article from the fact that it always cures and never disappoints. Coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, croup, and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it by getting a trial bottle free, large size $1. Every bottle warranted.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue of execution No. 482 directed to me, which, issued from the Clerk's office of the Lawrence Circuit Court, in favor of J. E. Stewart, Plaintiff, vs. J. C. Clevering, et al., Defendants, I will, on Monday, November 21st, 1887, at one o'clock p. m., at the Court House door in Louisville, Lawrence county, Ky., expose to public sale the following described property, (or so much thereof as may be necessary to produce the sum of $53.75, with 6% interest from March 1st, 1886, until paid, and the costs,) to-wit: A tract of land in Lawrence county, on the waters of two mile creek, bounded as follows: Beginning at the county road on a white oak stump, thence running south with the Hooten line to Muncey's line in Flemmurehett's corner; thence a straight line back to the beginning; containing about 12 acres, levied upon as the property of Doc Watkins.

Sale will be made on a credit of three months, bond with approved security being required of the purchaser. Witness my hand this 4th of Nov. 1887. A. L. SHANNON, S.H.C.

Commissioner's Sale.

John C. Adams, P.M. Notice of Sale. J. C. Moore, Deft. By virtue of a judgment and Order of Sale of the Lawrence Circuit Court, rendered at the August Term thereof, 1887, in the above styled cause, the undersigned will, on Monday, November 21st, 1887, at the Court House door in Louisville, Lawrence county, Kentucky, (being County court day,) proceed to expose to public sale to the highest bidder, the following described property, viz: A tract of land situated on Rich creek in Lawrence county, Ky., and bounded as follows, to-wit: Beginning on top of the ridge between John Adams now lives, (March 1886,) and Thomas Carter, thence running each way around the ridge with the lines of Thomas Carter, Jesse Cordia and A. Haws, Dr. Watkins, (now Jas. Evans), and running so as to include one half of the land deeded by Thomas Reed to Deres Reed containing 50 acres, more or less, and being on the upper end of said farm, the division line to run straight across, and being the same land conveyed to defendant by deed from Deres Reed, March 10, 1885. On a sufficient amount thereof to produce the sum of $225, with 6 per cent interest from March 10th, 1885, until paid, and $41.05 costs.

TERMS.—Sale will be made on a credit of 6 and 12 months. The purchaser will be required to give bond with approved security for the payment of the purchase money, to have the force and effect of a receipt bond, bearing legal interest from the day of sale, with a lien reserved upon said property, until all the purchase money is paid. ROSES.

"Have roses to sell? I have roses to sell!" "I have roses to sell? I have roses to sell!" "I have roses to sell? I have roses to sell!"

There were women and men hurrying fast through the street. The voices of the vendors grew faint as they went. I went to my window and there it was up high. Because I loved roses and wanted to buy.

"I have roses, sweet roses!"—heard I again. And a little was torn hurried by in the night. While I lay there, I was in the night. I was in the night. I was in the night.

No words save the roses that hung on her arm. She came to my bedroom, so modest and shy. And blushed with delight when I offered to buy. I took the best blossom. I gave what I chose. She knew not the value of a rose.

"I would not take money," she said, with a tear. "If father were well, and if mother were here, I could not help feeling—I love it all day."—Ashamed to sell flowers that we once gave away!

She died, with a sigh, from my pitying sight. And hurried away in the glow of the night. While I lay there, I was in the night. I was in the night. I was in the night.

Ashamed to sell roses, I saw, day by day. We are harvesting treasures more precious than they. The gift of a flower is the best we have got. For perishing pleasure that satisfy not.

We sell our smiles in the rich of the earth. Our favors for what we conceive they are worth. Our smiles for treasure, our smiles for wealth. Our smiles for wealth, and our freedom for Fame.

We are selling and selling—and what is the result? It is given to all, with no thought for the gift. It is given to all, with no thought for the gift. It is given to all, with no thought for the gift.

Poor seller of roses! I see thee no more. Thy voice is a sweet I can not explore. Thy fate may be mourning still in the night. "I have roses to sell!" have red ones and white!

Ashamed to sell roses! Perhaps you are now. Where have you been? The glories of now? Perhaps you are breathing the sweetest perfume.

The great rose of Sharon disappears around. I know not, but still, where were you then? Remembering still, there is a place in my heart.

I think of thee often, by poverty driven. Ashamed to sell roses, thou fair wouldst have given. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine.

To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine.

To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine.

To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine.

To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine.

To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine.

To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine.

To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine.

ROSES.

"Have roses to sell? I have roses to sell!" "I have roses to sell? I have roses to sell!" "I have roses to sell? I have roses to sell!"

There were women and men hurrying fast through the street. The voices of the vendors grew faint as they went. I went to my window and there it was up high. Because I loved roses and wanted to buy.

"I have roses, sweet roses!"—heard I again. And a little was torn hurried by in the night. While I lay there, I was in the night. I was in the night. I was in the night.

No words save the roses that hung on her arm. She came to my bedroom, so modest and shy. And blushed with delight when I offered to buy. I took the best blossom. I gave what I chose. She knew not the value of a rose.

"I would not take money," she said, with a tear. "If father were well, and if mother were here, I could not help feeling—I love it all day."—Ashamed to sell flowers that we once gave away!

She died, with a sigh, from my pitying sight. And hurried away in the glow of the night. While I lay there, I was in the night. I was in the night. I was in the night.

Ashamed to sell roses, I saw, day by day. We are harvesting treasures more precious than they. The gift of a flower is the best we have got. For perishing pleasure that satisfy not.

We sell our smiles in the rich of the earth. Our favors for what we conceive they are worth. Our smiles for treasure, our smiles for wealth. Our smiles for wealth, and our freedom for Fame.

We are selling and selling—and what is the result? It is given to all, with no thought for the gift. It is given to all, with no thought for the gift. It is given to all, with no thought for the gift.

Poor seller of roses! I see thee no more. Thy voice is a sweet I can not explore. Thy fate may be mourning still in the night. "I have roses to sell!" have red ones and white!

Ashamed to sell roses! Perhaps you are now. Where have you been? The glories of now? Perhaps you are breathing the sweetest perfume.

The great rose of Sharon disappears around. I know not, but still, where were you then? Remembering still, there is a place in my heart.

I think of thee often, by poverty driven. Ashamed to sell roses, thou fair wouldst have given. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine.

To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine.

To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine. To love me, I follow that yearning of thine.

FARM AND FIRESIDE.

—Allow no cruelty to domestic animals. —The cause of sewer gas in a house may often be traced to an unclosed catch-basin.

—The most savage bees can be made as harmless as house flies by sprinkling them with sweetened water.

—When prices for farm products are low there is some compensation in consequent cheapening of other supplies.

—Waffles: Three spoons of sugar rolled fine, one cup of butter, three beaten eggs, one-half tablespoonful of soda, one cup of milk; sift in flour enough to make a batter, one-half grated nutmeg, one-half teaspoonful salt. Bake in waffle iron.—Christian Union.

—Wood lace is used for odd bits of drapery—a window, small book-case, or for an ornamental chair. The pattern is thrown into strong relief by running an outline through the mesh with narrow, bright rib, while knots of bright ribbon form the border where fringe is needed.—Indianapolis Journal.

—Sandwiches: A nice way to utilize pieces of meat left from dinner is to make sandwiches for tea. Trim off the fat and chop fine. Cut the crust from the bread and slice very thin and put the meat between. If the bread is cut to small squares or three-cornered pieces, the sandwiches are much daintier looking.—Good Cheer.

—In any considerable district, good roads for wagons add materially to the value of lands, a fact clearly recognized in every agricultural neighborhood. In exactly the same way, easy and cheap communication by water adds value to all interests affected throughout a State, no matter how great its size.—Baltimore.

—Potato Salad: One quart of small potatoes, two tablespoonfuls chopped onions, two of chopped parsley, four of beets, and enough of any of the salad dressings or clear vinegar to make it slightly moist; to the latter, if used, add a little melted butter. Keep in a cool place until ready to serve.—Boston Budget.

—Further investigations have been made by Dr. Victor C. Vaughan, of Michigan University, into the development of typhoid fever, the poison which he has detected as a product of decomposing milk, and he recommends a number of precautions to prevent its being developed. Milk, he says, should be cooled down to a temperature of sixty degrees Fahrenheit within an hour after it is taken from the cow; and it should be kept only in the glass or porcelain vessels. Typhoid fever, he says, has been found not only in milk and cream, but also in ice cream and oysters.—N. Y. Ledger.

—Lemon Juice: The juice will keep. Squeeze the juice into a basin, then strain it off, perfectly free from the least pulp or pith. Have ready some perfectly clean and dry bottles, fill them just up to the shoulder, then add sufficient sweet oil to cover the top of the lemon juice. Cork the bottles, and keep them tightly and keep them upright in a cool place. The bottles must be small (quadruple vials are best), because when the oil is removed the lemon juice does not keep long. The peel will keep if dried and kept from the dust, and is quite as good to grate.—Boston Budget.

—Why Every Animal Should Have a Perfect-Fitting Harness. A repentant colored woman arose in the conference room and said: "Let every tub stand on its own bottom." There is a volume of misreading in that short exhortation. So we say to farmers, let every horse have a collar that will fit his neck as comfortably as an easy hat sits on a farmer's head. Let every horse also have a harness that will fit his body quite as well as a pair of new shoes fit the feet of an intelligent driver. A collar should not be so long that it can thrust the leg in of large space and the neck of the horse, the collar and
